An Interesting Bit Of Information!

February 18-19, 2017

Late Saturday afternoon, during the ARRL WW CW contest, I noticed the meter on my HyGain rotor control was bouncing around. Initially thought it was due to wind, then noticed it was not very windy.

When I tried to turn my yagi from Europe to Asia, the meter jumped around, so much, that I could not determine its direction. I had to look out the window to determine the direction. The meter showed 190-degrees, but the antenna direction was around 310-degrees.

It appeared the direction potentiometer failed, or the top of the rotor housing had come loose.

It was dusk, so not light enough to see what had happened. Decided to look into it in the morning.

I started back, in the contest, around 7:30 am and worked a few Europeans, then it was time to head to Weston for their 'pancake feed'. Great breakfast!

On returning home, it was time to look into the problem. I headed to the tower base to open the large, waterproof box, housing coax connections and the rotor cable. When I got the box open, there was a monster 'mouse nest' covering roughly half the box. Naturally, a couple of our cats were with me to supervise!

While clearing out the nest, I noticed a 'mouse tail' sticking out of the mess. Using my Leatherman pliers I gently tried to pick up the, what I thought was a dead mouse.

Surprise! It wasn't dead. It jumped out of the box and with one of the cats in hot pursuit. Don't know if it caught the mouse.

It took quite a while to clear the mess. Dirty and smelly!

When I came back in the house, I immediately checked the operation and alignment of the rotor control box. It was back to normal. Evidently the nest was intermittently shorting the wires from the potentiometer.

Due to the events of last fall and winter, I had neglected to inspect the box. I usually wait until there are a couple freezes, since I have been surprised by wasps building their nests in them.

Local Radio Club Making New Marks In The Area

Boy Scout Troop Asst Scoutmaster, Dudley Allen, KDØNMD, believes girls need to be given the opportunity to get more involved in ham radio. TD0TA provided one, and members of the Mid-America Council's Radio Scouting Club (KNØBSA) hosted a TD0TA event for Girl Scouts in Bellevue, NE on Feb. 18.

"This was the first event of this kind hosted for the Girl Scout troops in the area," Allen said. "Seven girls stopped by the 'shack' to see what it was all about." He had help from other Scout leaders.

"Jim Taylor, AJ0R, put girls in contact with Girl Guides in London, England, using EchoLink," Allen said, and he Ray McNally, N5SEZ, and Terry Gampper, NØBXQ, helped the young girls contact

Georgia and Texas on HF. Derek Winterstien, WØDBW, got on 2 m so the girls chatted with locals. "Thinking Day On The Air" is what you might call a self-defining event.

Another PARC member, Ray McNally, working a worthwhile project.

Yeah! Congratulations

Each year, SKN participants are asked to vote on who had the Best Fist and who gave them their Most Interesting QS). This year, the Title goes to Richard Newsome, WØHXL. As you know, Dick is a member of PARC, now living in Iowa.
